Fourteenth Musical Festival Will Open Monday With Renewed Enthusiasm

On Monday, the 14th annual Crows Nest Pass Musical Festival will open at Blairmore. Renewed interest is being shown after an interval of 18 months since the previous festival, as after several years of holding it in the Fall, the original rule of a Spring festival has been resumed.

Besides the heavy entry list from the Pass towns, Fernie this year is sending an exceptionally large delegation, including their fine band and an orchestra, under Francois Vernon. There will be 70 bandsmen and orchestra players from Fernie. Bellevue Band it is expected will appear in their resplendent new uniforms secured from England, so that there will be plenty of color in the band competitions.

The adjudicator will be Mr. Ronald W. Gibson, of Winnipeg, who five years ago acted in this capacity for the festival. He has adjudicated at more than twenty festivals from Ontario to British Columbia. At present he is organist and choir master of Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Winnipeg.

People of the Crows Nest Pass are urged to support the festival by their attendance. Transferable season tickets this year at $2.00 provide an economical way in which to attend. Sessions start at 9 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 1-2-3. The secretary is Mrs. J. H. Farmer, and the president, Mr. George E. Cruickshank.

PASTY-FACED GIRL CLERKS

Paul Henkel, president of the Society of Restauranters, New York, says there is an appalling trend toward soda fountain luncheons. "Hordes of working girls bolt a couple of pieces of bread with a wisp of lettuce and a dash of so-called mayonnaise and wash it down with a soda," he said. "They save on lunches to buy cosmetics, when the real fountain of beauty is health, and health depends upon good food."

"Watch the crowds of pasty-faced young clerks pour out of their offices at noon, spend 15 cents and 15 minutes for lunch, and 15 cents and 45 minutes for cigarettes."—Cranbrook Courier.

A REQUEST FOR TRANSPORTATION

Mr. Cousins, instructor in music at the schools, would greatly appreciate assistance in transporting children from Coleman to Blairmore on Tuesday. Fifty children have to leave at 1 o'clock and thirty at 7 o'clock. If every person owning a car would make one trip it would enable the children to be transported quite easily, and if car owners would advise Mr. Cousins which time they would prefer to take children, it would be appreciated. Advise him as early as possible following publication of this request.

Rev. R. W. Dalgleish Guest for Anniversary United Church

Special Services and Anniversary Dinner Will Mark Occasion

On Sunday and Monday next the congregation of the United Church will hold special services celebrating the 33rd anniversary of the opening of their church. This will be a matter of interest to many outside the actual membership.

The president of the Alberta Conference of the church will be the guest of the congregation and will preach at both services on Sunday and take part in the Monday evening program. Rev. R. W. Dalgleish of Claresholm is one of the senior men of the church in Alberta and has a long record of successful pastorates. Services will be at 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The senior choir will lead the singing at both services. The Sunday School will be held at the regular hour. This is an event of general interest to the community, especially to those apart from the regular worshippers who have no formal church relationship but who look to the United Church for the things necessarily done by the church. These are cordially invited. A anniversary dinner will be served on Monday evening by the Ladies' Aid.

IN AID OF SELF-DENIAL FUND SALVATION ARMY

West Canadian Collieries Band and Blairmore United Church choir will take part in a benefit concert on Monday, May 8, in Coleman Community Hall, proceeds to be devoted to the annual self-denial fund. Further details next week. Plan to attend and thereby help the world-wide work of the Army.—Captain and Mrs. Fred Hewitt.

Home Training Services For Young Women

Training School in Calgary in Most Attractive Home Under Competent Instructors

Through the co-operation of the Federal and the Provincial Governments there is made available public money to enable young women from 16 to 35 years of age to secure a period of training for Home Service that would enable them to secure employment under favorable conditions. A training school for this purpose has been set up in Calgary in a most attractive home under the direction of three competent instructors, and young women whose homes are in cities, towns or hamlets are invited to apply for admission. The course runs for a period of three months, then being enrolled each month, and there is no tuition fee. For young women of good health and endorsed by reputable citizens, arrangements can be made to provide transportation, and for board and room accommodation under supervision without cost to the party for the three months' period. There are several other advantages, but one of the main is the undertaking to help the young woman to secure a job at a fair wage and to supervise her in her work. Those to whom this privilege is offered must give an undertaking to work on some job for wages for a period of at least six months immediately after graduation, if a suitable place may be found for her.

This is an excellent opportunity for desirable young women anxious to improve themselves, and inquiries are invited by the committee in charge, in care of the Government Employment Bureau, Calgary.

What Confirmation Is

Confirmation is a rite and Sacrament of the Christian Society, the Church. Outwardly it consists in the laying-on of a bishop's hands with prayer; inwardly it signifies, and is the means of bestowing, the gift of God's Holy Spirit for the special object of helping an earnest and serious person to fight better against sin and selfishness. The place in the Bible where Confirmation is portrayed is Acts 8:14-25, where the outward ceremony and the inward gifts of the Spirit are described. We further find a list of the "gifts" of the Spirit in I Cor. 12:4 (based, no doubt, on Isa. 11:2); and a catalogue of the "fruits" of the Spirit in Gal. 5:22.

In Aid of Canadian Legion Relief Fund

Souvenir Buttons of King and Queen's Visit Will be Sold on Saturday

Calls are occasionally made on the Canadian Legion for assistance, and for this purpose it is necessary to have a fund from which temporary assistance might be given.

The Legion at its meeting last Friday decided to purchase 500 souvenir buttons, containing pictures of the King and Queen. These buttons are made up in the Vetracraft shops by ex-service men. They will be placed on sale here at 10c each, and every person is urged to buy a button from young people who will offer them at the bank, and who will call at the homes. Help them to sell out the 500 by purchasing early.

The provincial president of the Women's Auxiliaries of the Canadian Legion, Mrs. C. Faggetter, of Calgary, visited Coleman auxiliary on Friday, and addressed the members at their evening meeting, giving an interesting discourse on the work the Calgary branch is doing in providing comforts for soldier patients in Belcher hospital, and also on other activities.

Bellevue ladies of the Legion Auxiliary also were present, and presented Mrs. Faggetter with a carving set as a memento of her visit. The visitors included Mesdames D. Hall, Simons, A. Watson, Allison, C. Ritchie, H. Jepson, C. Emmerson, T. Smith, C. Woodward, Ed. Cole, Williams, and Mrs. Turner, who made the presentation.

The prize winners at whist were Mrs. W. H. Garner of Coleman, Mrs. Ritchie of Bellevue and Mr. Williams, of Coleman.

Baseballers to Play on New Sports Field

The new sports field located opposite the McGillivray tipple has been definitely chosen as the site for all sport activities in Coleman this year.

Last week the baseball committee inspected the field and found the field large enough for their requirements. All these major summer sports, football, baseball and softball, will be played there.

Further concessions will be asked from the McGillivray Co. It is hoped to secure the company's permission to demolish several old barns and in that manner gain another twenty or thirty feet in width. The barns would be re-erected behind the residence of Wudec Kubica, who lives on the property.

Once the barns are removed it is expected that John Salvador's tractor and the followers of the three sports will get to work and have the field in tip-top shape within the next week or two.

Canada Comes First

During the Great War of 1914-18 many rumors were rife and stories in circulation of sedition, espionage, sabotage and threats of sabotage on the part of alien residents in this country and in some cases it was found necessary by the authorities to take some action to curb anti-British and anti-Canadian activities in the interests of the country as a whole.

Once again, now that the world is again passing through a period of international tension and while war clouds hover alarmingly over a large area of the globe, similar reports are coming to hand indicating that in some parts of this country subversive influences are at work in an effort to undermine democratic government here and to give aid and comfort to a potential enemy.

Fortunately it can be said at the outset that the great bulk of Canadians are loyal to their own country, to the form of government that has been bequeathed them by their forebears; to the fundamental principles of democracy on which this country has been founded and has been built, including those dearly bought privileges—freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom of the press and the right of free assembly.

To these tenets of the right to rule themselves and the right of individual freedom not only do the British-born elements of the community subscribe wholeheartedly and with passion, but also the vast majority of those who have come to this country from lands where other tongues are spoken, the great majority of whom have taken the oath to support and sustain the constitution of the country of their adoption, the hospitality of which they have sought and are enjoying, together with all the privileges and rights which go with Canadian citizenship.

During the Great War many of these people from other lands, including the countries which Canada and Great Britain were at war at the time gave many evidences of their loyalty and love for the country which they had adopted. Many of them enlisted with the Canadian forces and served overseas, some of them with marked distinction, while others remained at home to render valuable services in standing those who were inclined to waver between two allegiances. To-day, they and their children are honored and respected citizens of the country. Their loyalty to Canadian institutions and the Canadian form of democratic government is beyond all question and that applies to the overwhelming majority of these nationals.

In Our Midst

Unfortunately, however, Western Canada is giving harborage to a small minority, possibly a mere handful, who appear determined to do their utmost to exert a baleful influence upon their former compatriots, to create trouble for the authorities and who are taking advantage of the present uncertain international situation to undermine, in every possible manner, the government of the country.

Reports are ventilated in the press of the formation of secret, underground organizations of subversive character, of agitators being carried on by small groups and individuals, of seditious utterances, of espionage, of threats of sabotage and in one recent instance of a threat of death against the family of a war veteran who came out openly and condemned such nefarious activities.

Under all these circumstances and with such disquieting occurrences being ventilated it is not surprising that war veterans' organizations are passing resolutions calling upon the government of the country to take immediate steps to repress such activities and to demand the suppression of a foreign language newspaper published in this country which, if translations of its utterances are correct, is taking a strong anti-British stand in its editorials. While supporting the general principle of the freedom of the press, branches of the Canadian Legion take the stand that suppression of press branches of the Canadian Legion take the stand that suppression of

It is not surprising, too, to find that such occurrences at home, coupled with the tension overseas, is serving as a stimulus to the registration of war veteran who are not only willing but anxious to serve the interests of their country at home, as and when their aid may be required. Such incidents are serving but to rally them to come forward in increasing numbers and register, which is precisely what might be expected.

Action Is Warranted

Recent events give good ground for the government's action in stiffening the law respecting espionage and the government would be quite warranted in adopting some of the measures recommended by war veterans' organizations to curb and suppress subversive influence and activities calculated to jeopardize the interests of good loyal Canadians and democratic government in this country.

Just what measure should be taken with this end in view is for the government to decide but whatever steps may be taken, it can be assumed without hesitation that the authorities will be accorded general support by the great majority of Canadians, and not only to British birth but by practically all those who have come here voluntarily from other lands and have made this country their own and of their descendants.

It must not be overlooked that those who have adopted Canada as their country, who have partaken of her hospitality and enjoyed her freedom and who have sworn allegiance to this country and its constitution have virtually said, and mean it, that "Canada comes first."

Scientists Investigate

To Make Study Of The Youngest Lake In The World

An expedition of seven Russian scientists are now on their way to study the youngest lake in the world, Lake Sarez, in Soviet Central Asia.

This baby lake, which is 44 miles long, a mile wide, and 1,800 feet deep, was born only 28 years ago of a tremendous earth tremor which tore loose an entire mountainside from the foot of the Pamir Knot into the bed of the Murghab river, 3,000 feet above sea level, creating a natural dam.

A five-acre field of wheat will be grown and harvested on New York World's Fair grounds this summer.

Served Queen Victoria

Loyal Servant Remembered In Her Will Is Dead

John Pottow, for whose future Queen Victoria made provision in her will, has died at Windsor. For 50 years Royal and loyal service, he was from 1859 to 1901 footman and personal attendant to the queen, and in the closing months of her life he helped to carry her from room to room. He was who summoned the Prince of Wales to her bedside when the end was near. Mr. Pottow had many gifts and decorations from fourteen monarchs.

Country's whose names begin with the "A" usually end with that letter also.

More Than An Advantage

Aviation Can Also Be A Threat To Any Country

Aviation and wireless are the two inventions of our times that have been the great revolutionary improvements in human communication: they have brought the people of the world very close to one another, and at once to their advantage and their peril.

Mr. McTaggart Cowan, a visitor here, points the moral and adorns the tale of one of these inventions. He says that air passage from Vancouver to London, in 38 hours, will most likely be possible by 1941.

It is an extraordinary prophecy, but the statement of it, of course, is not startling at all. Mr. Cowan suggests, almost as a matter of course, that there will be another year of experimental flight and preparation, then a preliminary trans-Atlantic air-mail service and then mail and passenger service together.

The progress of the newly-inaugurated Trans-Canada air service is the promise and the pattern of the extended service. The sort of work Mr. Cowan is carrying on at Bolwood is the indispensable complement of trans-continental and trans-oceanic air service. Weather observation is an important phase of it.

Aviation is at once the promise and the threat of the future. In the moral sense, as well as materially, the heavier-than-air flying machine overleaps all the old frontiers of land and sea.

Saved A Life

Quick Delivery Of Letter In England Has Fortunate Result

Because a postpaid letter reached its destination in less than two hours, a woman's life was saved in England. In the second morning mail a letter was received at the Gillingham (Kent) Police Station saying:

"By the time you receive this I shall be dead."

The writer gave her name and address. An inspector saw from the postmark that the letter had been posted only two hours earlier, so the police rushed to the address and found a woman lying gasped on the floor. Now she has recovered in hospital.

KNOW RIGHT WAYS TO TRAIN YOUR DOG

Two little puppies—eager to grow up to be smart, well-behaved dogs! And so they will when properly trained.

It's not hard to make a puppy understand if you win his confidence. Giving puppy a good rule is not to punish him with the hand that feeds him. When necessary speak sharply to him or tap him lightly with a folded newspaper.

Time to begin your puppy's "grow-up" schooling when he's about nine months old. Easy then to teach such clever tricks as "Shake Hands!" When he's in a sitting position press your hand against the right side of his head. His right paw will naturally rise, then you quickly grab it and say "Shake Hands!" He'll soon get the idea.

Training goes more quickly, is more fun for you and doggy when he's in top form. To have an alert, healthy dog, know rules of diet, be able to recognize first signs of illness, especially distemper.

Oldest Drummer Boy

A. S. Thompson At 53 Years Is With The Territorials

The British army's oldest drummer boy is 53.

He is A. S. Thompson, who joined the Territorials at 17, attained the rank of company-quarter-master-sergeant and then reverted to the ranks when he was 50.

Thompson just will not leave the Territorials. He knows that the regulations permit him to serve another five years as a drummer boy in the band, and he intends to take full advantage of them.

New Machine Invented

Will Fill Sandbags At The Rate Of 700 An Hour

The filling of sandbags is not part of the lighter side of the soldier's life. Old soldiers must have sweated at the news some weeks ago that the War Office had ordered two hundred million (200,000,000) of the things from the jute mills of India. The very thought of so many sandbags waiting to be filled must have made many an old back ache and many an old palm blister in anticipation.

Therefore blessed be the names of John Williamson, R. A. Winfield and T. C. Taylor, of the Air Raid Precautions Service at Northampton, England, who have invented a machine to do the job. Operated by four men, the machine can fill sandbags at the rate of 700 an hour. Hitherto, by sheer hard manual labor, three men could fill only 60 an hour.

Visions arise in the mind of increased leisure for the troops, till one remembers that the sergeant-major and the national enemy are probably already thinking up new schemes to give the soldiers something to do in their spare time.

A Long Sleep

South African Woman Asleep For More Than 25 Years

Anno Swanepoel, a South African woman who has been almost continually asleep for more than 25 years, has been moved from her bed in the Chronic Sick Home, Rietfontein, to the Johannesburg General Hospital.

She has occupied the bed for 19 years. Attempts are to be made in the hospital to improve her condition, but it is feared that she can never be cured.

Owing to her condition, Miss Swanepoel is still a little girl in her outlook. She can neither read nor write, for she has never been to school. She spends her few waking hours with dolls.

Although in the last seven years there has been some improvement in her condition, Miss Swanepoel still goes to sleep for weeks at a time. She has a tumor on a gland which stunts the development of the mind and makes her sleep.

Incompetent Counsel

The prison warden was examining a new batch of convicts.

"Here," he said to one of them, "sign your name on this blank."

"Sorry," said the prisoner, shaking his head; "I can't sign it."

"The warden was amazed. 'Why can't you sign it?'"

"Because," answered the prisoner, "I can't write."

"Oh, I see," said the warden. He reflected a moment. Then: "What are you here for?"

"Forgery."

"What?" cried the warden. "How could you be convicted of forgery when you can't even write?"

The convict shook his head again. "Well, I think I had a bad lawyer!"

London's Famous Kitchen

Free Meals Are Served To Anyone At St. Peter's

Down Garrick-street, near theatreland and famous Covent Garden market, is St. Peter's Kitchen, where free meals are served to all.

The menu consists generally of soup, fish and chips, and, on special occasions, steak pudding. Fred Taylor, retired police inspector, who supervises the kitchen, asks no questions, but jots down the number of meals served each night. The number varies between 190 and 580. No body has been able to say what makes the place busy or not, but over four years' experience and the serving of well over half a million meals shows that week-ends as in the case of high-class restaurants—are always slack. The most crowded night is Thursday, when money drawn from dole or pensions has come to an end.

Mr. Taylor says that less than two per cent. of his guests are Cockneys. Nearly all have come from distant cities in the age-old belief that the streets of London are paved with gold. There is an employment officer to help find work—and two nurses to look after blistered feet!—Overseas Daily Mail.

Rome-Berlin Axis Gains A Victory Over Democratic Nations

London.—The Rome-Berlin axis started off the European week with an important victory over the democratic opposition.

In Venice, it was announced that Yugoslavia had agreed to enter into closer political and economic co-operation with the axis partners.

According to informed sources the Balkan kingdom will pledge itself to improve political relations with Germany, apparently rebuffing the democratic plan to erect an interlocking "peace front" of small countries around the reich on the east.

Word of Yugoslavian diplomatic cession to Mussolini and Hitler came as a blow to British and French diplomats.

By reason of their diplomatic agreement with Yugoslavia dictators have widened the already existing wedge driven between the western European democracies and eastern European peace partners.

To-day, Poland, Roumania, Greece and Turkey lie on the far side of an Italo-German dominated band extending from the North sea to the Mediterranean. Further, if as some sources anticipate, Bulgaria falls in line with the Rome-Berlin axis, and Hungary sides with Yugoslavia, the peace front will be further rejected, and Greece and Turkey cut off in the north from Roumanian and Polish aid.

In event of war, both Greece and the Turkish-held Dardanelles would be laid open to an overland attack from the north.

At the same time in Berlin Chancellor Hitler studied the replies of 31 smaller countries to a questionnaire asking whether those states considered themselves menaced by Germany.

Roumania was the only country thus far to give the Nazi dictator a frank answer to his oblique question. "Voicing the feeling doubtless felt in many small European states the Roumanian reply merely said: 'Germany is in a better position than Roumania to know her own intentions.'"

While Switzerland added that she "placed confidence in Swiss neutrality," the other countries, including Finland and The Netherlands, contented themselves with the simple statement that they did not consider themselves menaced.

From Paris came word that Russia is now ready to sign a military pact with France and Great Britain.

What is more, some quarters reported that the Soviet is preparing to call a conference of world nations fearing further axis inroads in eastern Europe.

Marine Insurance

London.—The board of trade outlined in a white paper the government's provisional plan for marine insurance against war risks designed to prevent rates rising so high as to restrict shipping. It disclosed an agreement between the board of trade and the war risks cargo pool, composed of marine insurance companies and underwriters.

Entire Forces of Three Nations Pledged To Resist Aggression

London.—Soviet Russia was reported reliably to have sent the British foreign office proposals which indicated Soviet willingness to participate in the British-French coalition.

A source usually well informed said "the entire forces" of the three nations would be pledged to resist any aggression in Europe if the proposals were accepted.

The Soviet proposals, which countered those put forward in Moscow by the British ambassador, Sir William Seeds, to Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinov, were being considered by the British foreign office.

It was reported also talks with Turkey were progressing.

Thus some quarters believed if agreement could be reached with Moscow, Britain shortly would be able to announce inclusion of two new allies—one with great reserves of manpower and raw materials and the other of prime strategic importance—in the front she is building in an attempt to check the Rome-Berlin axis.

Canada's Defence Position

Wants Committee Appointed To Ascertain The Facts

Ottawa.—A parliamentary committee vested with the task of ascertaining the facts relating to Canada's defence position was advocated in the senate by Hon. W. A. Griesbach (Cons. Alberta). Such a committee might either be composed of members of the commons or the senate or be a joint committee of both houses, he said.

General Griesbach, war-time commander of the 1st Canadian Infantry brigade, spoke on the government's measure aimed at creating a defence purchasing board. The bill got second reading and was referred to the banking and commerce committee.

The need for a committee arose out of the frequency with which the minister of national defence declined to disclose information relating to Canada's defence position, on the ground that it was not in the public interest. The committee would call the technical military officers and obtain from them the relevant facts, the senator said.

A second suggestion which General Griesbach declared he would press on the bank and commerce committee, when the bill came before it, was that the chairman of the proposed purchasing board should be appointed a member of the defence council. This procedure was followed in the United Kingdom, where the director-general of munitions was a member of the army council, he said.

Moving second reading, Senator Raoul Dandurand, government leader, outlined the scope of the bill and recalled the circumstances which, during the Great War, had led up to the establishing of the war purchasing commission. He cited the various enactments adopted by the wartime government to eliminate excessive profits from war supplies and declared the present bill to be an effort in the same direction.

The King's Birthday

Dominion Offices Will Be Closed On May 20th

Ottawa.—Dominion government departments will be closed May 20, the date on which Canadians will celebrate the birthday of King George.

Closing of government departments on May 24, Victoria Day, will depend on whether parliament is sitting. If it is, a skeleton staff will remain on duty but it is not a general civil service holiday will be observed.

The birthday of King George has been observed in Canada on June 9 since his accession to be throne but this year it was moved ahead to May 20 so that it could be celebrated while Their Majesties were in Ottawa.

The King's actual birthday is December 14.

A Vicious Spiral

Sir Edward Beatty Opposed To Any Further Increase In Taxation

Montreal.—While taxes are necessary, there is no need for Canadians to "reconcile ourselves to any further increase in taxation, or even to the maintenance of the present situation," Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, told the annual meeting of the Purchasing Agents' Association of Montreal.

"My own strong feeling is that we have got into a vicious spiral," he said. "Disturbed economic conditions have tended to increase the number of people who are supported by taxation. This in turn, increases taxation, which tends to enlarge the number who will become dependent on taxes. I think, indeed, that we have gone quite far on such a spiral in Canada, but I do not believe that we have to go on unendingly."

A matter to which the association might devote its attention, said the speaker, was that of price parity in the Dominion.

"In my business," he said, "I am very much worried about this lack of price parity . . . and what I can do with it."

"I know, for example, that our biggest single block of customers—the farmers of western Canada—are not getting enough for their goods to enable them to buy what other people have to sell, and my company cannot hope to prosper unless this exchange of traffic goes on. If we are to have profit, then the farmer must sell wheat and buy other goods as well. It is difficult for him to do that in any volume at the present level of income which he enjoys."

"That leads me to think that, unless the price of what the farmer produces is going to rise very rapidly, the rest of us will have to set our minds very seriously to reducing the price of what he buys."

Action May Be Taken

Ontario Seeks Ban On Article Aimed At Royal Family

Toronto. Authority for the attorney-general to bring an action to prevent publication of any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine or other printed matter containing any writing, article or picture "tending to insult, degrade, revile or expose to hatred, contempt, ridicule or mockery" His Majesty or any member of the royal family, would be granted under a judiciary act amendment introduced in the Ontario legislature.

The amendment provides action may be taken in the supreme court and empowers the court to order any defendant to file a bond to refrain from publication of any such matter. Any one who, after the service upon him of an order restraining such publication, continues to do so, shall be liable for contempt of court.

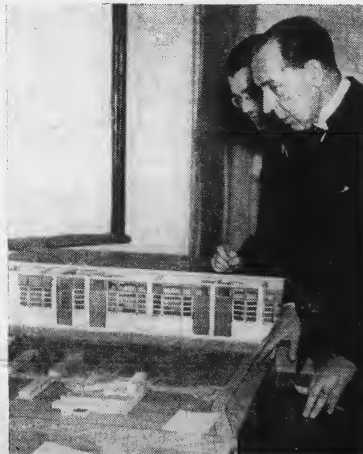

Return Visit

President Roosevelt To Be Invited To Visit England

London.—Court circles speculated on whether President Roosevelt could return the American visit of the King and Queen. There was a tendency in well-informed sources to believe that he would, but possibly not until after 1940.

Court circles pointed out that it is customary for the head of state visited by Their Majesties to return the visit. It was said that the King could be expected to extend an invitation to Mr. Roosevelt while he is in Washington.

Goes On Active Duty

Col. Lindbergh To Make A Survey Of American Aviation

Washington.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the famous flyer, was called to the colors in a dramatic move to insure that the United States army shall remain in front in the development of warplanes.

A few days after expert witnesses had told congressional committees that Germany was building better "planes than United States," the surprise announcement was issued by Henry Woolding, secretary of war, that Lindbergh, an Air Corps reserve officer, had gone on active duty and would make a survey of American aviation research facilities for the Army Air Corps.

The "Lone Eagle" reported at the office of the chief of the air corps, Major General Henry Arnold. He then departed on an inspection trip of research centres. Later he will mail a confidential report to General Arnold.

Shortly before the Lindbergh announcement was made, President Roosevelt held a conference with financial and other advisors on ways of protecting the United States from any economic shocks which would result if Europe went to war.

Western Canada Wool

To Be Included In Fabric To Be Presented To Mrs. Roosevelt

Toronto. Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers announced a quantity of fine staple (merino) wool, produced in western Canada, will be included in the fabric to be made soon from wools grown throughout the British Empire for presentation to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was announced recently that Queen Elizabeth had agreed to accept from United States wool growers a comparable fabric made from wools grown in 34 states of the union. These materials will be made in New York and London for Queen Elizabeth and Mrs. Roosevelt prior to the royal visit to Canada and the United States next month.

Again Urge Price Of 80 Cents A Bushel To Western Farmers

Ottawa.—A guaranteed price to western farmers of 80 cents a bushel for wheat, basis No. 1 Northern at Fort William, instead of the proposed guaranteed initial payment of 60 cents a bushel was urged upon Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, by the national convention of the 20th Century Liberal Association of Canada.

The 60-cent price would not be enough, western delegates maintained. When news of the proposed initial payment was received in the west, retail sales fell sharply and many orders for agricultural implements were cancelled, the westerners said. Freight traffic would suffer if the lower price were adopted and the economic life of the prairie provinces would be adversely affected. If the western farmers were expected to pay their debts they must have the guaranteed price of 80 cents a bushel.

Text of the resolution was: "Resolved that in view of the present international position with reference to the marketing of wheat and of the importance of the wheat industry within the general economy of the Dominion of Canada, and recognizing the continued existence of the emergency conditions necessitated compensation during the crop year 1939-40; 1—the continuation of the wheat board for 1939-40; 2—the setting of a guaranteed price for wheat of at least 80 cents for No. 1 northern, basis Fort William, instead of the proposed 60 cents; 3—the carrying out of the principle as outlined in the Hon. J. G. Gardiner's acreage bonus plan which provides some insurance for farmers against poor crop returns."

The resolution, proposed by the Manitoba junior section, met some opposition from eastern Canada delegates on grounds it asked subsidies and protection for the western farmer while eastern farmers and manufacturers received no subsidies. However, the meeting finally adopted the resolution after prolonged discussion.

The convention was unanimous in support of a resolution for creation of an under-secretary for each post in the Dominion cabinet. It was suggested the under-secretary should be a member of parliament and by answering questions in the house would free the minister for duties of his department.

Other resolutions adopted approved the principle of the Dominion youth training plan, extension of trade agreements, highway construction, and collective security. The convention urged abolition of privy council appeals and favored the principle of the national crusade for good reading.

Delegates tabled a resolution suggesting a Dominion government embargo on "all raw materials for armament manufactures and all war munitions going to the aggressor nations." It was felt it would be difficult for the government to define raw materials for war use and that in any event it would be even harder to determine destination of such shipments.

Economic, diplomatic and military co-operation with United States was approved because the "manifest destiny of Canada is an integral part of the North American continent."

Tangier Being Watched

Zone Is Of Strategic Importance To Great Nations

Gibraltar.—The international zone of Tangier, with 225 square miles and 60,000 population, joined the list of international "hot spots" as the result of its strategic importance to five nations in event of a Mediterranean war.

The Tangier zone lies adjacent to Spanish Morocco on the North African Atlantic coast opposite Gibraltar. Great Britain and France had indirectly warned dictator states against attempting to occupy it, and, in turn, have received assurances from Spanish officials in Tetuan, Spanish Morocco, that Gen. Francisco Franco contemplated no impending move against the zone.

The German war fleet of about 40 vessels will sail at Tangier about May 1, and reports circulated that many Italian sailors had been housed recently at the Italian legation in the city, although no Italian warships were in port.

Associated Press reports that New York shipping sources have confirmed that vessels normally routed through the Mediterranean sea and the Suez canal to eastern ports are rounding the Cape of Good Hope because of a boost in cargo insurance rates in waters where various fleets are concentrated.

Earl Baldwin Says Canada An Object Lesson To Europe

Toronto.—Union of French and English in Canada is an object lesson to Europe that war or threat of war is "not necessarily a law of nature and that after centuries of strife, nations can seek peace and they can find it," Earl Baldwin said here in the first of three lectures in University of Toronto's Convocation hall.

"That reconciliation and union of two racial groups was a practical demonstration not only of tolerance but also of 'certain qualities by which alone our empire can be preserved'—loyalty, sympathy and understanding."

In suggesting other countries might be persuaded to follow the example of the British, Earl Baldwin made plain he was not assuming any English complacency and self-righteousness.

"We in our empire, after much experiment, have adopted the method of mutual co-operation in attempting the solution of our problems. We have happily been able to show that difficulties can be resolved by discussion where we are certain they could not be by force. We have found that this method of co-operation can be adapted to domestic needs as well as to those of wider imperial import."

There is nothing of complacency or self-righteousness in holding that such methods may be employed in a wider sphere and in failing to see why they should not be employed with success."

His address inaugurated a lecture-series established in tribute to the "wise and beneficent rule" of Sir Robert Falconer as president from 1907 to 1932 of the University of Toronto, a university which has become, in Earl Baldwin's opinion, "one of the most significant in English-speaking world."

"What common effort have I found in our people?" Earl Baldwin said. "Fundamentally a stout individualism, yet with the power of co-operation, a broad and tolerant humanity, and humor. Not wit, which is of the intellect, but humor, which is of the heart."

He said that we are impervious to ideas and that problems of the intellect do not interest us as a people. There is truth in that but I do not think that we are incapable of understanding."

The Englishman's reaction to a new proposition in politics or other fields was, "will it work?" and he had an uncanny instinct as to what would or would not work.

No two democracies were alike, either in form or spirit. The British constitution, a monarchy and democracy, could never have been created but only evolved, the result of the work of countless men of all classes and many creeds.

"This tradition is in itself our greatest safeguard and without it we should be more exposed to certain obvious dangers in not having a written constitution. In that we are singular. The very flexibility makes us cautious and at the same time allows us an adaptability in our evolution which our political sense enables us to utilize to the fullest extent."

The English party system was not one of rival ideologies nor of "import innovations" adapted to a structure unsuited to receive them. The danger of the constitution would come on the day the party system was changed to that of rival ideologies, neither of which would survive the very existence of its opponents.

"Any attempt to change the basis of our constitution whether from the left or right might easily strain it to the breaking point. That is why internally we have no dealings with Fascism or Communism, neither would destroy the soul of our people and the form of our constitution."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

ONE reads some amusing things in the day's news from all parts of the world. A Church of England clergyman in a London suburb, in his parish magazine, asked the parishioners not to take big drinks from the communion wine as he passed it along at the Sunday services. One communicant drained the cup, though sufficient wine had been put into it to serve all those taking communion.

EVIDENTLY the temptation for the thirsty one was too great to resist, or in absent-mindedness he just followed a natural habit. However, the parson had to fill the cup three times when once should have been sufficient. This elbow bending exercise goes a little too far when the fellow practices it in church.

A representative meeting of members of various political groups, including some who at the provincial election of 1935 voted for Social Credit candidates, met at Cowley on Thursday night to organize for the next provincial election. Determination to try and restore to Alberta a sane administration, and disgust at the crackpot theories and legislation attempted by the present government were the main reasons of this combination of anti-Aberhartists discussing plans for organization.

THERE is difficulty to be overcome in selecting a candidate acceptable to the agricultural and industrial areas of the newly-formed Pincher Creek-Crows Nest Pass constituency. Opinion was expressed at the Cowley meeting that if Labor could produce a candidate acceptable to the agricultural area, they would be willing to give him their support, and they look to the Pass to take the lead. Here is a responsibility which should receive serious consideration. The Journal is of the opinion that the redistribution committee acted with little serious thought in grouping an industrial area such as the former Rocky Mountain constituency with Pincher Creek, but it has to be endured for at least the forthcoming election. Rocky Mountain should have been left wholly as a Labor constituency. But such alignment is in keeping with top-sided Social Credit methods.

THE plan suggested to complete organization is to call a meeting of all who are opposed to the present government, acquaint them with the plans or policy to restore Alberta's credit and to put an end to the trend to build up an army of government satellites whose only political purpose is to continue Social Credit because it ensures them jobs. Meetings will be arranged in the Crows Nest Pass towns which will give all an opportunity of expressing their views and taking part in organizing for the next election. Only by well-planned organization can worthwhile results be achieved.

TO the writer's way of thinking, residents of the Crows Nest Pass have been most unfairly treated in the matter of expenditures on highways. National parks highways, used only for a comparatively brief period during the year, are given appropriations to make travel ling more pleasant for the tourists, while the people of this district, who buy gasoline throughout the year, pay license fees and taxes, are compelled to travel in a cloud of dust. Our Federal and provincial representatives certainly cannot point to anything they have done to secure relief for the long-suffering users of the highway through the Crows Nest Pass, which is a part of a Trans-Canada route from the prairies to the coast.

ANY kind of representation on what we have at present, stated an elector at a meeting last week in Cowley, which was discussing possibilities for the next election. In the Federal field, we have F. O. McKenna, of Pincher Creek, as Liberal nominee, and one can imagine that he will if elected put forth some practical effort to secure recognition for the people of the Pass towns. In the provincial field, Labor will play an important part in the newly aligned constituency and it is high time that all parties interested get together to freely discuss the selection of a candidate. Only by united action can this district receive the consideration it has long deserved.

FINANCE Minister Dunning's budget discloses an increase of over $11,000,000 compared with the previous year's deficit on the Canadian National Railways. Yet there are political pot-boilers who advocate a continuance of this burden on Canadian taxpayers.

PREMIER Aberhart states the dividends are not a consideration now of the Social Credit government. We must balance production with consumption, he stated to a meeting in Calgary. Our opinion is that the law of supply and demand will continue to govern, despite what the theorists of just prices and other economic fads may propose.

ASSESSMENT notices for the town received this week will cause considerable interest, but not so much as the tax notices, which will tell you just how much you have to pay. It is money that talks, and causes talk, too!

WE can envision the day when we may sit under the spreading chestnut trees in McDonald's grove at the Empire hotel, and drink pots of beer in the calm of the summer evenings, when the day's work is done and the noise of the mining tippie has ceased. The plot of land adjoining this comfortable hostelry has been fenced, the ground dug and pulverized, and cherry and maple trees planted. Its going to be a fine spot, remarks Jack, in fact its beauty will be so appealing that the tourists will be compelled to stop and sample the Alberta beer.

John Kemmis, grand secretary of the provincial grand lodge, A.F. & A.M., and former legislative member for Pincher Creek, has at last received a medal for service during the Riel rebellion. He will proudly wear the medal, no doubt, with his Masonic decorations.

Some people are a flag to flagging spirits. They put your best impulses on the double-quick.

PEGGY'S flowered print, Jim's blue overalls and Dad's striped shirt sway beside billowing sheets, snow-white pillowslips, towels, handkerchiefs and underwear! No wonder Mother feels, as she pins the clothes on the line, that the loving care she takes of all the family is work well worth while...

This busy western housewife may think, too, about the workers back east kept employed making all these useful and attractive cotton and rayon articles and of how the money they earn enables them to buy her butter—her husband's beef and wheat.

"Yes," she murmurs as she works, "it's all work worth while. We western workers put good food within reach of eastern mothers and their children, while textile workers back there provide us with all these additional home comforts. Canadian comradeship like that seems sensible to me!"

THINGS TO REMEMBER ABOUT MILK:

1. It is one of the most important items of diet.
2. Pasteurized milk is the safest.

INCREASE IN MORTALITY RATE OF INDUSTRIAL POLICY-HOLDERS METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE

OTTAWA, April 18.—The March death rate in Canada among the industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company was considerably above that recorded for March last year. As a result, the cumulative figure for the first quarter of 1939 is now more than six per cent higher than that for the corresponding part of 1938. The relatively unfavorable record for the year is due, for the most part, to higher mortality in the Province of Quebec during the month of March.

In the case of certain diseases, the mortality in Canada has increased sharply. The most conspicuous examples are measles, scarlet fever, influenza, cancer, diseases of the coronary arteries, appendicitis, and chronic nephritis.

Improvement in mortality among the industrial policyholders of the company in Canada is in evidence for typhoid fever, diphtheria, pneumonia, tuberculosis, cerebral hemorrhage, diarrhoea and enteritis, puerperal conditions, and suicides.

Accidents (all forms) and automobile fatalities have declined; the year-to-date rate for the latter is 26.7 per cent lower than that registered for 1938.

Walter Williams went to Calgary on Monday to appear before the Compensation Board, having been laid off for two months with an injury to his knee sustained in the mine.

Surfaced Highway

Have we been remiss in not working for a hard surfaced roadway from Pincher Station to join up with the B.C. border? Pressure should be brought, in co-operation with the Pass towns, to complete this highway as a part of the park to park program which the Dominion government has inaugurated. Now that the road from Waterton to the United States border is to be hard surfaced this year the time is opportune to take this matter up with the Dominion and Provincial governments.—Pincher Creek Echo.

"Give It the Works"

THAT'S what our buyers tell the Research Bureau when they want to have merchandise tested for strength or performance.

Stockings, cloth and fabrics are tested at strain points by the "Mullen Tester," which records the pressure required to burst them. Linoleums, leather and certain fabrics are given severe friction tests to prove their wearing qualities. Overalls and work garments are subjected to a straight pull to determine the tensile strength of the denim. Rayon products are tested for their ability to wash and iron as well. Processed fabrics are subjected to tests under running water before they are advertised as shower-proof. Hats are plunged into pails of water or left under a running tap before we call them weatherized. Suits are taken to pieces to determine the soundness of the inner construction. Boards are painted and exposed to the weather for months to determine the wearing qualities of the paint. A motor pushed a heavy iron roller over a mattress and spring for days to determine the effects of reasonable wear and tear.

By means of tests such as these we are able to guarantee that the merchandise finally selected for our catalogue will give satisfaction to our customers. EATON'S advertising means what it says; exhaustive tests have been made to prove that all statements are true.

Granville Greenhaigh Left for Arrow Lakes

After 28 years' residence in Coleman, 25 of which have been with International Coal Co., Granville St. Greenhaigh has decided to take up the rustic life and will make his home on a poultry and cattle ranch at Arrow Lakes which he purchased several years ago with a view to settling there. Coming originally from Lancashire, he started to work for McGillivray Coal Co. in 1913. In 1915 he returned to his home for three months and coming back to Coleman, commenced work with the International Coal Co., remaining there till his resignation, with the exception of a short period in the Canadian Army Service Corps in Calgary during the Great War.

In 1927 he was so badly injured that it was little short of a miracle that he survived. He was motorman on the electric trolley dump car, at that time used in dumping slack at the west end of the mine yards, when without warning the trestle on which it was running collapsed, and Granville was pinned beneath the wreck. For nearly ten months he was incapacitated, but he made a marvelous recovery, though still suffering a slight lameness from the accident. He was chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Oddfellows Lodge for five years, has been Noble Grand twice, and 26 years a member of the order. He was honored last week by a presentation of a jewel by the lodge in recognition of his faithful service. The lodge joins in wishing Mr. Greenhaigh prosperity and happiness in his ranch in the less severe climate of British Columbia.

NEW HEADLIGHT BY GENERAL MOTORS

Just recently a new headlamp, claimed to make night driving as safe as daylight operation, has been added to the list of accessories of General Motors Products of Canada. The lamp has a prefocused high-efficiency bulb and a single unit monoplane beam reflector, and throws a beam of clear white light 1,000 feet ahead of the car. Its most important features are that it produces no glare to annoy approaching drivers, and with a fog-cap on the bulb, produces a fog piercing ray.

A KNOWING DOG

At the C.P.R. depot Will Taylor, agent, has a very sagacious setter, who is on the alert for the freight trains as they pull into the station or as they pass through without stopping. Train crews have become familiar with the waiting and watching dog, and they save scraps of food from their meals to throw out to him. If the train is slow in coming in, he becomes impatient and races to the tail end of the train, running alongside of the caboose, wagging his tail with expectancy. If it is a through train he waits on the platform, and as the caboose speeds by, he watches for the expected scrap wrapped in paper and loses no time in tearing the wrapping off and satisfying himself. If other dogs get wise they too will be coming around to meet the trains.

FORE-WORDS

There is increased interest in public affairs, according to John R. Lamb, president, the Bank of Toronto. "The fact that all taxes come eventually from the people is being gradually realized, but this interest will have to be further stimulated. Governments are still squeezing the utmost from various tax sources, and are also dipping heavily into the accumulated savings of the people. These policies depress our living standards, decrease our markets, and undermine our export trade." Continued use of this system of government, adds Mr. Lamb, will lead not only to lowered living standards but to the loss of much of the freedom we now enjoy.

UNITY CANDIDATE FOR DELA

Initial step in securing nomination of a Unity candidate in Hand Hills constituency was seen at a meeting of residents of this district. Following an address by E. W. Brunsden, Calgary, secretary of the Unity Council, and a discussion of the situation in the constituency, the meeting created an organization to work with similar bodies in other parts of the constituency. It was urged by a number of residents that immediate action be taken for the holding of a constituency-wide organization meeting.

A. C. B. Grenville, Morrin farmer, was elected chairman of the local Unity organization.

WITH OUR ADVERTISERS

Attention is again directed to the interesting advertisement of Grocery Specials of Coleman Cash Grocery (Associated Grocers Ltd.) whose reputation for quality goods has won a large number of steady customers during the years it has served the people of Coleman.

Motor car advertising is again to the fore, and Crows Nest Pass Motors during April and May have carried on a steady campaign for Chevrolet cars. "The only low-priced car combining all that's best at lowest cost," is the 1939 slogan, as contained in the advertisement, which urges customers to "buy from a business leader—your Chevrolet dealer."

Among the light refreshments advertised are Bright's Wines, Calgary Dry Ginger Ale and Albert Beer. Dominion Textile Company Limited also is carrying a very interesting and instructive series of display advertisements, which are commended to the attention of Journal readers, as well as the display advertisements of life insurance companies.

The fact that these large companies of national importance use the weekly newspapers is convincing evidence of the value of the local community weekly as an advertising medium.

The fashion plate this week announces arrivals of spring dresses and hats, advertised in this issue, and which will smarten up the spring wardrobe.

Charles Nicholas has on display a nice line of ladies' blouses and spring millinery.

Marconi and Seaman

Chicago in three or four days, their living expenses being paid by Chicago Cubs. The two youths spent four days in the city and were taken to Bloomington Field, 100 miles from Chicago. "Fixed under supervision of Cubs' officials, they were put under a strenuous course of physical training for eleven days, during which time they were allowed at intervals to show their ability on the diamond. On the eleventh day they were released from the training school with the encouragement that they could come back next year under the same financial conditions.

At the school approximately fifty boys ranging in age from sixteen to twenty-five years were industriously trying to impress the trainers with their skill. The boys, for the most part, live in and around Chicago.

Marconi will line up with Angelo's newly organized Pucksters which will get into action within the next week or two.

THEATRES

"ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT" AT PALACE THEATRE

This picture is brought back to you at a time when the whole world is again fearful of war. The story was written by one who hated war, because he knew from experience that it is hell, not glory. The mothers of the world will welcome it and will urge their sons to see it. It is greater than mere entertainment, because it is a war against war itself. As a showman and as a hater of legalized murder, I am intensely proud to offer it to you.

A preview will be shown on Sunday night at the Palace of "That Certain Age," featuring Deanna Durbin. The child you've known—and loved—has grown into glorious girlhood; she captivated you in "Three Smart Girls." Wait until you see her now!

COLE'S THEATRES EXPLAIN

Why Certain Pictures Have Not Been Included in All Pass Theatres

Owing to the number of enquiries as to why pictures that have played Cole's Theatre, Bellevue, have not been shown in Coleman, The Journal enquired of Mr. Cole the reason. He stated that certain pictures were contracted for prior to the taking over of the Pass theatres by Mr. Cole, and were booked for Bellevue and Hillcrest only. It was able to make arrangements for showing pictures at all the theatres with the exception of pictures leased by one company only. All pictures to be shown in future will be shown at all the Pass theatres.

LITTLE REST DAY OR NIGHT

Woman with Severe Neuritis

For the benefit of others who may be troubled with the complaint she suffered from, a grateful woman writes—

"Last May I had a very severe attack of neuritis in the leg, which made it impossible for me to rest during the day or to get regular sleep at night—to say nothing of the intense pain."

"Various medicines gave me very little relief, and a friend advised me to give Krukenberg a trial, as she had derived benefit from it whilst suffering similarly. I am so thankful that I took her advice. From the very first bottle I felt relieved, and now I am quite free from pain and get a good night's sleep." (Mrs.) H.C. Neuritis, like rheumatism, lumbago, and sciatica, is often caused by needle-pointed uric acid crystals, which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Krukenberg helps to convert those crystals into a harmless solution, which is removed through the natural channels.

Lynn Dana had written Sally Ann the night before: "As to your question—I don't know. Our queer dark one, beyond all possibility of a doubt, quite literally worships the air he flies in. As for the last—he approves her utterly for her courage and cleverness, but he's flint-hard and bat-blind. If her heart's on her sleeve, he doesn't see it, and she has a nice young dignity and reticence."

Something did not quite suit Gunnar in Hermod's rhythm as they flew in. As for the last—he came down at Oakland before crossing the bay. It needed only a minor adjustment, but would take a little time.

"Tee, while we wait," the ace said. He hailed a taxi and put her in it, and they drove a couple of blocks. "Here! This will do!"

It was a shabby little eating-house with a menu written in chalk on a blackboard at the door.

"Wait!" Gunnar directed the taxi-driver.

"Sure," he said amiably. "Comin' in myself, 'Lo, Lena!" he greeted a big-busted woman with dyed hair. "How's tricks?" He sat down in the last seat before the counter which brought him close to the tiny kitchen from which issued heat and smells.

The floors sat near the door. "Tee and bread, honey," he ordered briefly.

The woman slammed down their plates and cups and Gunnar was buttering a thick slice of bread.

The taxi-driver had risen and stooped into the back room, and now a little man in an enveloping apron came out. He had scared eyes and an unimportant chin, and he was staring at them. He spoke over his shoulder. "Honest? You ain't stringin' me, Nick?"

The woman said something to him and he popped out of sight like a gopher into its hole, and the taxi-driver came back grinning.

It was the usual thing to be recognized. Almost everywhere they went someone knew Gunnar. Thorwald at once, and then there would be nudges and whispers.

Other customers came in. The woman served them truculently. Her husband came eluding out of the kitchen again to salute at Gunnar and Sarah Lynn. He had a droll little pot-bellied figure and pipe-stem legs, and he stood nervously rubbing his hands over his dirty apron.

"I just gott ast you," he began in a hissing whisper. "Nick, he's a great one to kid you along. On the level, are you Gunnar Thorwald and—and that girl?"

They were, they told him. Sarah Lynn gently, the Norwegian ace with a sudden friendliness which surprised her.

The wife wheeled about, snarling. "You get back where you belong!" She took an order. "Stack 'a' wheat!" "Ham and!"

Without a word he scuttled back into his unsavory domain. Gunnar finished his bread and honey and drank off his tea. His eyes were narrowed to a gleaming blue slit. Then he stood up and walked back through the study room, past the hunched figures feeding at the counter, and stuck his head into the steam and stench.

"So it interests you—flying." "Interests—say, boy! I read every scrap I can lay hands on, and I see every movie that's got flying in it, and when I stand here, hushin' and bossin' 'em go by in the sky," he stopped, gulping, his Adam's apple moving convulsively in his stringy throat.

The wife came back with a pile of soiled plates and pushed rudely past the flier. "Pop, you tend to business! Tea-bone and country fry!"

The Norwegian looked through and beyond her. "Yourself would wish to fly."

The little man put down a long pronged fork and clasped small pugy hands with broken and black-rimmed nails. "Just once—before I die—I wouldn't ast nothin' more. I wouldn't—"

"Come, then!" It was all done in a flash. The aviator's arm which seemed to lift him bodily out of his fetid trench and propel him through the tiny restaurant into the taxi, the driver, wiping his mouth, grinning, running after, jumping into his seat, Sarah Lynn, delighted, aghast, following Gunnar, the staring customers, the woman emitting shrill staccato cries.

"Pop! Pop! You come back here! You crazy? Want to break your fool neck? Pop!" She began to whimper and stomp. "You let loose 'a' him, mister! I'll call a cop! You can't kidnap—"

They were rattling down the street, the little man wedged in between them, the unhealthy pallor of his face suffused with scarlet excitement.

Sarah Lynn drew Gunnar aside while the Hermod was being wheeled to the line. "It's a gorgeous thing to do—and I adore it! Look at him! Almost expiring with bliss! But, Gunnar, he looks so sick—he has such a wretched color, and see how he breathes. I mean—suppose he has a weak heart?" She put an anxious hand on his arm.

He looked down at her, his gaze at once stern and gay, reckless and compassionate. "He's still with fear of death? You have not listened, then, while I told you? Life is one adventure; death is another! To be alive—that is nothing, unless life is good. Is he living in that foul hole? Better death in clean air! We go!"

CHAPTER IX.

The Gate was richly gilded, bathed and burnished in a strong light, and the sun was shining in a mottled blaze of unbelievable glory.

Pop perched on the edge of his seat, looking off, looking down. His unpleasant pallor was enhanced and there was a pinched look about his nose and mouth. He was breathing badly, but his eyes were enraptured. He caught her scrutiny upon him and smiled at her, drawing a long, quivering breath, tipping his head back, relaxing like a swimmer about to float on a gentle sea.

The Hermod swooped and swirled like a gull, dipped and rose again. Sarah Lynn pulled herself to attention. This proud domination over the fowl of the air and the fish of the sea was not a bird-like inconsequence, but a business of infinite importance, detail, of levers and gears and hair-trigger precision. The sea-gulls, white dots against green-blue, far below them now, flew because they couldn't help it, but men flew because they had conquered.

The taxi-driver was waiting for them. "Hi, Pop," he said, "you better beat it! Lena, she's fit to be tied!"

The little man tried to thank Gunnar but he made only a series of embarrassed gurgles.

The flier gave him a comradely clap on the shoulder. "It is good! Now you remember always!" Sarah Lynn escorted him back to the restaurant.

Driving back to Danavale she said again, "I want to come down in a parachute, Gunnar."

"Yes. After you have solved for a month. Then I will take you."

"Take me?"

"You shall do it from the Her-

mod. I will remove the door, for your Department of Commerce, Conrad Jordan has told me, makes you wear two chutes when it is the jump of intention."

"Oh? In case one doesn't work? And it would be too bulky to get out through the door? But after I'm once out, it's perfectly simple, isn't it, Gunnar? Just to wait long enough to be clear of the ship before I pull the string?"

"That is all," he agreed. His mouth looked rather grim.

"Gunnar, did you mind when you did it?"

"It is good! Now you remember always?"

"On the ground, before, I had fear like a great sickness. In the air it left me."

Le Roy suggested her first flight alone in secret but she decided against it. It was due Great-gunnar and Lynn and all the others they wanted to come, and at the last, instant she whispered to her young brother Bill. Bill's freckles, standing out like brown polka-dots on his pale face were the last things she thought about as she walked over to the plane.

She slipped round to the further side, unobserved, and laid her face against the Chinese lacquer red. "Don't be jittery, darling!" she whispered. "I won't even kick your nail-polish. I promise! I'll take you up like a swan and bring you down like a leaf."

She got into the cockpit and went through the routine she had rehearsed again and again. It had become an integral part of her mental process.

The assistant sprang aside from the propeller.

"Clear!" Clear, oh, clear! Forever and forever, life for the queer dark Dana girl, shining and clear.

Sarah Lynn pushed her throttle to the stop and Ladybug went forward with a roar, left the ground and began to climb into the wind. Sarah Lynn reached the attitude she wanted, readjusted her stabilizer to take the load of the joy stick, leveled off, banked to the left, building her own road as she flew. She couldn't matter what comes to me, if I live to be a hundred, I can never be as happy as this instant!"

The little ship quivered under her hands, sprang forward at her touch, dipped, soared. It was a living thing, vibrant, sensitive; delicate and dear, helpless in her care, depending upon her courage and skill.

"I'll take care of you!" Sarah Lynn pledged her plane.

Ladybug, Ladybug, fly away home! (To Be Continued)

Planning Long Glide

British Pilot Is Hoping To Set A New Record

A 1,450-mile "Glide" is being planned by Mr. Philip Willis, the Empire's leading glider pilot, says Pearson's Weekly. He hopes to travel non-stop from Perth (Australia) to Adelaide and so set up a new record. Mr. Willis holds the present British distance record of more than 200 miles, but if he succeeds in his contemplated venture, he will beat the world's distance record at present held by Russia, by more than 1,000 miles.

Receives Appointment

Dr. Charles H. O'Donoghue, who was first professor of zoology at the University of Manitoba, has been appointed professor of zoology at the University of Reading, England. He carried out considerable important research work in Canada. Since 1927 he has been reader in zoology at the University of Edinburgh.

In England, about 76 per cent. of the non-fatal and 60 per cent. of the fatal road accidents occur on roads with a restricted speed limit of 30 miles per hour.

Prairie Rose Culture

Many Choice Varieties Can Be Successfully Grown In The West

It is to be regretted that roses are not found in the prairie garden and employed in beautifying the prairie home grounds more frequently than they are. Too often the cause lies, not in the climate, not in the roses, but in the people themselves. Many people have the erroneous idea that roses cannot be grown successfully on the prairie. Yet there are several varieties in the Briar and Rugosa Hybrid that are quite hardy at the Dominion Experimental Station, Rosthern, Sask., and a few in the more tender Hybrid Perpetual class which can be grown with success provided a little winter protection is given.

In the tall and very hardy type, Betty Blund is in a class by itself. It grows from three to six feet high and is covered with medium sized double pink roses in June. The bright red branches add to its decorative effect. The Rugosa rose makes a useful landscape shrub. It is hardy and thrifty, with luxuriant deep green wrinkled foliage and large purplish to white flowers. Being of the perpetual blooming type it can be depended on for a long season of bloom. Rosa Altaica is a shrubby free flowering plant with small foliage and large creamy white flowers. Hansa, dark red, semi-double; Harrison's Yellow, semi-double, tall and hardy; Austrian Copper, bright red-dish copper, single; and F. J. Grootendijk, with its clusters of small rose flowers and long season of bloom are all hardy here with little or no protection.

Rosa rubrifolia, the Redleaf rose, has attractive purplish red foliage which makes a good background for other roses or ornamental shrubs. It is not quite hardy here.

In the Hybrid Perpetual class which come through the winter when mounded up with a cone of earth, good varieties are: Mrs. John Laing, rose pink, fragrant, lasting; Capt. Havel, deep red; Frau Karl Druschki, an excellent white; Hugh Dickson, crimson; and the fine Hybrid Tea, Gruss an Teplitz, with its bright red semi-double fragrant flowers and continuous blooming habit.

Several other varieties of Hybrid Perpetuals and a few Moss roses are being tested at the Rosthern Station.

Under Protective Wing

South Africa Helpless Without Britain's Fleet For Defence

Without Great Britain's aid South Africa would be helpless, Jan Smuts, Minister of Justice, said in an address to a United Party meeting recently.

"We have a large country with many harbours," he said, "but no defence. We are lucky to have England's fleet to defend us. Otherwise we would be helpless in time of danger. In other words we would be helpless without her protection, as we have a coastline of so many thousands of miles."

"We are indeed fortunate that by grace of Great Britain we have a free, democratic country. We are greatly indebted to Britain for this system of democracy and for not being a satellite to any dictator, or for any such person but to have the freedom of our own Government and make our own laws."

"I therefore implore you to stand together and keep close to overseas friends, because if we lose them to-day we are helpless."

Lost We Forget

In the war of 1914-18 throughout the world there were:

74 million men mobilized.
10 million killed.
3 million missing.
19 million wounded.
10 million disabled.
7 million prisoners.
9 million orphans.
5 million widows.

Ten million men, women and children were forced to flee from their homes.

Six thousand, four hundred men were killed daily, and this went on for 1,557 days.—Voix du Combattant, Paris.

Dairying is New York's largest and most widespread industry. Holland, noted for its milk and dairy products, does not compare with New York in this respect.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will love you. Get Pep and Pepette. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men will leave you. Men don't like "cross" girls. Reclaimed Sandy Waste

British Company Has Remade A Garden In The Desert

In recent times the valley of the Tigris and Euphrates was one of the world's garden spots. Irrigation made the fertile lands so productive that ancient civilizations rose here, to fall and rise again. The Garden of Eden, some have thought, was in that valley. But slowly the irrigation systems fell apart, repairs ceased, and little more than a sandy waste remained. Sixteen years ago a British company started to build a new irrigation system to make what had become desert blossom like the rose.—New York Times.

Total Seems Large

Although Production Of Snuff In Canada Varies Each Year

The Toronto Star says the production of snuff in Canada varies from year to year, averaging 1,000,000 pounds in 1928-29, and in 1937 over 825,000 pounds, worth in that year over a million dollars at the factory, and costing the ultimate consumer much more than that. Who is it consumed all this snuff? Even making allowances for its use as an insecticide, as well as for human consumption, the total seems impressively large.

The New England shilling was the first coin issued in this country by American colonists. Distributed in defiance of royal British decree, it was highly popular as a gesture of independence.

In Germany, during the World War, the copper roofs on all the buildings except two cathedrals were ripped off to make shells. They have been replaced since that time.

Proper drainage of milk churns would result in saving of 3,000,000 gallons yearly in Great Britain, the department of scientific research estimates.

Spring Tips For Motorists

Advice On Proper Care To Be Taken Of Cars In The Spring

1. Be sure and change from light oil and grease to heavier grades for warm-weather driving.
2. It's simple to prevent your car's cooling system from over heating this summer. Drain your anti-freeze and have your garageman pour a can of corrosion preventive into the radiator. Car manufacturers say radiators should be rust-proofed now.
3. Check your brakes now after a long winter. Remember, even with good brakes, a car travelling 40 miles an hour can not be stopped under 115 feet. Have your garageman "Pull the wheels" to ensure proper check.
4. Do you know that almost 60% of fatal accidents occur at night, although there is only one out of every four cars on the road. Have your headlights checked for correct focusing and the reflectors cleaned. Replace worn-out or dim headlight bulbs without delay.

Photograph A Cough

Radiological apparatus which can photograph the coughs of a patient during attacks of pleurisy or pneumonia has been invented by Professor Edoardo Cignolini. It will be an important exhibit at the forthcoming Leonardo da Vinci Fair in Milan.

The number of pieces in a watch or clock has not changed materially since clocks first were made.

STORY ILLUSTRATES GOOD BUSINESS MAXIM

Make your customer your leading man, writes Zenn Kaufman in an article in "Showmanship in Business," published in Chain Store Age. He illustrates his point with the story of the tramp who was walking along a country road. Farmer Si Jones came along and gave him a lift. Soon they passed Farmer Brown, who inquired:

"Hi, Si—what you got?"

"Oh, es' a load of manure and a tramp."

No comment from the tramp. Soon they passed Farmer Johnson. Same question:

"Hi, Si—what you got?"

"Oh, es' a load of manure and a tramp."

Still no comment from the tramp. Then Farmer Roberts came by. Same question. Same answer.

Whereupon the tramp climbed up to the front of the wagon, tapped the Indications in the political arena are that a Unity candidate will contest the Stony Plain seat rendered vacant by the death of Wm. E. Hayes. In the Capital there was no official bucking to the rumor that the Liberal party will also enter the contest nor has there been any official intimation that the election will be held in the near future.

STUDENTS LOANED PHYSICAL TRAINING EQUIPMENT
Physical training equipment, bought last Fall by the council for the Youth Training Movement, has been loaned by the council to the public and high school pupils.

Since receiving the equipment a sharp interest in physical training has been manifest among students. A spring jumping board and the game of volleyball are most popular, as groups can be seen enjoying each sport many hours during the day. Mr. Ray Spillers, genial physical instructor, must certainly have a stiff neck and sore shoulders as some students, not a supple as others, do everything from falling on his back to sitting astride his neck, as they try to jump over him by means of the spring-board.
